

How Has Protocol 13, "Distractions," Contributed to the Antichrist's Rise?

Sixbert SANGWA • July 24, 2024

In examining the sinister strategies outlined in Protocol 13 of the Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion, it becomes apparent that a covert plan has been in motion for centuries, aiming to manipulate global affairs and morality. This brief article aims to expose these strategies and their impact on the world, ultimately suggesting that these machinations serve to pave the way for the rise of the Antichrist, as prophesied in the Bible.

The Mechanics of Distraction

Protocol 13, titled "Distractions," details how a secretive group seeks to dominate global affairs by distracting and manipulating the masses. The document begins by emphasizing the necessity of daily distractions to keep the general population (referred to as "GOYIM") passive and subservient:

"The need for daily forces the GOYIM to keep silence and be our humble servants. Agents taken on to our press from among the GOYIM will at our orders discuss anything which it is inconvenient for us to issue directly in official documents..."

This suggests a systematic use of media and controlled information to direct public discourse away from significant political matters. Today, we see this tactic in the form of sensationalist news cycles, where trivial stories often overshadow crucial political developments. For example, major news outlets frequently prioritize celebrity scandals or entertainment gossip over in-depth analysis of government policies and international relations. By creating a cacophony of trivial debates and superficial interests, the public is kept from scrutinizing the actions of those in power.

The Role of Media and Public Opinion

The protocol further elaborates on the manipulation of public opinion through controlled media:

"We are constantly making public declaration that we are guided in all our undertakings by the hope, joined to the conviction, that we are serving the common weal."

By professing to act in the public's best interest, this covert group garners trust while subtly steering the masses towards their desired outcomes. In contemporary times, this is evident in the narrative control exercised by powerful media conglomerates, where information is often framed to shape public perception favorably towards certain political agendas or corporate interests.

The Diversion of Intellectual Energy

To prevent people from engaging in political discourse that could threaten their plans, the protocol proposes inundating the masses with new and seemingly significant issues, particularly in the realms of industry, arts, and sports:

"In order to distract people who may be too troublesome from discussions of questions of the political we are now putting forward what we allege to be new questions of the political, namely, questions of industry. ... WE FURTHER DISTRACT THEM WITH AMUSEMENTS, GAMES, PASTIMES, PASSIONS, PEOPLE'S PALACES."

By keeping people preoccupied with entertainment and trivial competitions, they are effectively discouraged from critical thinking and meaningful political engagement. The rise of streaming platforms, social media, and gaming industries has created an environment where individuals are constantly bombarded with content designed to capture their attention and occupy their time. This keeps the populace distracted from more pressing political and social issues.

The Illusion of Progress

One of the most insidious tactics described in Protocol 13 is the manipulation of the concept of progress. The document claims:

"Therefore we shall continue to direct their minds to all sorts of vain conceptions of fantastic theories, new and apparently progressive: for have we not with complete success turned the brainless heads of the GOYIM with progress..."

By promoting hollow ideas of progress and innovation, the covert group distracts from genuine advancement and understanding, leading society astray. Today, this can be seen in the relentless pursuit of technological advancements and consumer products marketed as revolutionary, despite their often-superficial benefits. This keeps society focused on materialism rather than on spiritual or moral development.

The Grand Deception

The ultimate goal of these distractions is to bring about a New World Order under their control, as stated in the protocol:

"When we come into our kingdom our orators will expound great problems which have turned humanity upside down in order to bring it at the end under our beneficent rule."

This covert group aims to stage-manage global events to such an extent that their rule appears benevolent and inevitable, a sentiment that echoes the prophesied rise of the Antichrist in 2 Thessalonians 2:9-10: "The coming of the lawless one will be in accordance with how Satan works. He will use all sorts of displays of power through signs and wonders that serve the lie, and all the ways that wickedness deceives those who are perishing."

Historical Impact and Modern Relevance

Throughout history, we can observe the influence of such distractions. From the bread and circuses of ancient Rome to the modern media's constant bombardment of trivial news and entertainment, society has often been diverted from substantial political engagement and spiritual reflection. The rise of consumer culture, the proliferation of sports and entertainment industries, and the endless cycle of new technological distractions all serve to keep the masses occupied and docile.

In today's context, we see these strategies manifesting in the overwhelming flow of information through social media, the 24-hour news cycle, and the relentless pursuit of entertainment. These distractions prevent people from engaging deeply with significant issues, both politically and spiritually, making society more susceptible to manipulation and control.

Conclusion

In exposing the elements of Protocol 13, "Distractions," it becomes clear that a sinister plan has been in place to manipulate global affairs and morality, steering humanity away from God's truth and towards a state of spiritual blindness. This deceit is reflected in the biblical admonition in Jeremiah 9:6: "You live in the midst of deception; in their deceit they refuse to acknowledge me," declares the Lord. As Christians, we must remain vigilant, discerning the signs of the times and anchoring ourselves in the truth of God's Word. As Ephesians 5:15-16 admonishes us: "Be very careful, then, how you live—not as unwise but as wise, making the most of every opportunity, because the days are evil." Additionally, we must heed the warning in Colossians 2:8: "See to it that no one takes you captive through hollow and deceptive philosophy, which depends on human tradition and the elemental spiritual forces of this world rather than on Christ."

By understanding and exposing these deceptions, we can better prepare ourselves and others for the spiritual battles ahead, standing firm in our faith and resisting the schemes of the evil one. The signs of the times indicate that the rapture is closer than ever. Therefore, it is crucial for us to abide in Him and remain steadfast amidst the world's efforts to inaugurate the Antichrist.
